Professional Summary

Content Operations Coordinator with nearly 9 years of experience supporting remote teams through content operations, research, data verification, recruitment support, and business operations. Throughout my career at Product.ai (formerly Demand.io), I have built a reputation for delivering accurate, reliable, and high-quality work while adapting to evolving business priorities and operational needs.

Since joining the company in October 2017, I have progressed from Virtual Assistant to Content Operations Specialist and currently Content Operations Coordinator. Along the way, I have supported multiple platforms—including Dealspotr, Monetization, Knoji, and SimplyCodes—developing strong expertise in content management, operational support, quality assurance, and cross-functional collaboration.

I am recognized for my attention to detail, adaptability, and commitment to continuous learning. Whether maintaining consumer-facing content, supporting recruitment through high-volume candidate screening, mentoring new team members, or contributing to special projects, I consistently strive to improve processes and deliver dependable results.
